The indications for twenty-four hours commencing at 3 p. m., to-day for Missouri are: Fair weather; light, variable winds, generally from southwest to northwest; a slight fall, followed by stationary temperature.

G. N. BUTLER failed miserably in his attempt to make a privileged class of imported criminals.

The Supreme Court Justices are all thorough States' rights men; but there is no occasion for alarm.

MR. HEWITT's attack on the newspapers is an exhibition of “ghoulish glee” that is both unjust and impolitic.

The prohibitionists of New York still refuse to listen to Republican reason; that is to say, they decline to disband and lose themselves in the Republican party.

BUFFALO BILL has been offered $400,000 for his Wild West Show. This offer is evidently based on the assumption that a free-born American Indian can be bought and sold like a base ball player.

IF MR. HENRY GEORGE fails to receive a respectable vote next Tuesday the outlook for his new crusade will be very gloomy.
If he gets a big vote it will make him an important political factor for next year.

The London people have been very favorably impressed with the orderly conduct of Buffalo Bill's Indians. They should get the advice of these Indians about the proposed reform of the House of Lords.

THERE was no important news left over for our morning contemporaries to publish to-day. Yesterday's Post-Dispatch gave the Supreme Court decision in the Anarchist case, and everything else of interest or importance.

A LOCAL contemporary says that the position of the Supreme Court in the Anarchist case is “unimpeachable.” The general belief is that the position of the court is unimpeachable; but of course some people hold a contrary view.

IF GEN. HENRY JACKSON of Georgia really aspires to the United States Senate he should wake from his dreaming without delay. If he is bound to serve the public in an official capacity, a cross-roads post-office would be about the right thing for him.

THE North American Review discusses JOHN SHERMAN as a possible President.
The Ohio Senator doubtless shines brighter as a possible President than he would as an actual one; and the hope is well-nigh universal that he will continue to serve the public in the former capacity.

COUNT DE LESSEPS has announced to the French Academy of Sciences that the Panama Canal will be opened on February 3, 1888. This statement must be a soothing fantasy evolved for the benefit of people who have invested in Panama Canal stock, and who are now getting inquisitive about dividends.

THE Supreme Court did not brush aside RANDOLPH TUCKER's Fourteenth Amendment point as lightly as old BEN BUR-LER's far-fetched treaty guarantee.
TUCKER's proposition is reserved for some future case which may involve its consideration. But the whole drift of the decision indicates that the Supreme Court is not yet prepared to regard the Fourteenth Amendment as a revolutionary reconstruction of the whole Constitution, nor even as a transformation of special restrictions upon the Federal power into special limitations upon the reserved rights and powers of States and people.

THE ANARCHIST DECISIONS.

RANDOLPH TUCKER's point that the Fourteenth Amendment converts into limitations of State power the preceding amendments that were originally adopted as limitations of Federal power, is not considered at all in the unanimous decision of the Supreme Court in the Anarchist case. After referring to the fact that the court has hitherto always held the first ten amendments as limitations of Federal power only, and as not applicable to State authority at all, the court finds that it is not required to consider whether the Fourteenth Amendment has the alleged effect or not; that no such question is raised by the record or involved in such Federal questions as are raised.

It simply finds that there is nothing in the rulings of the court below to be overruled as in conflict with Federal law; that the Illinois statute objected to is not materially different from other jury legislation which has been sustained by the Supreme Court, and that, as construed by the trial court, it was not repugnant to any provision of the fundamental law, State or Federal. The record showing nothing wrong in the formation of the jury, neither does it show any denial of the defense's constitutional rights in the introduction of evidence or examination of witnesses. Of the constitutional question supposed to be involved in the seizure and introduction of the Most letter and other private papers, the court says it cannot take jurisdiction, because the statute expressly confines its jurisdiction to rights, privileges and immunities “specially set up or claimed” in the trial, and denied by the trial court. Where no such claim was set up and the record shows no such denial or violation of rights, the defense cannot ask the Supreme Court to interfere in behalf of an afterthought claim which depends upon the proof of outside facts not proven at the trial.

This is the gist of the decision, unanimous as was the decision of the Illinois Supreme Court sustaining the rulings of the trial court in all material points in the Anarchist case. There never was a trial more vehemently assailed or more triumphantly vindicated as in strict accordance with the law of the land.

HEWITT ON BOSSISM.

MR. ABRAM S. HEWITT is a chronic and somewhat dyspeptic bolter who takes delight in suppressing political bosses and smashing the party machine when it fails to grind out nominations as he has “slated” them. Now, when he is Mayor and running the machine himself, he says there is no machine and the political bosses are all right, but that there are some very dangerous newspaper bosses who must be suppressed because they refuse to ratify the machine's efforts to save JACOB SHAPIRO from the penitentiary.

The newspaper boss in this case is nothing but a candid reflector of honest public sentiment, of the sincere judgment of independent citizenship and Democracy, with no “influence” but what is earned by courageous opposition to wrong, no power but the force of argument and reason addressed to the sovereign people.

Suppress that and all free criticism of nominations paid by ward bosses is suppressed. It is notorious that they assess candidates more than the emoluments of the office amount to, and that these assessments are in many instances paid by booties who thus acquire control over the officers of New York City and a “whack” at the immense sums expended by that municipality. The independent newspaper levies no assessment, charges nothing for its support, has no offices or contracts to dispose of and is the only check upon those who do, the only thing ringmasters and booties are afraid of.

MR. HEWITT will find the suppression he has undertaken a big job on his hands, and that his opposition to NICOL is the very thing needed to secure to that independent Democrat the bulk of that large Henry George vote.

It is said that GOULD once in the presence of COWEN and KING, two B. & O. men, proposed to GARRETT to buy a part of the B. & O. Telegraph stock and join him in unloading that property on the Western Union at a big profit, and that Mr. GARRETT virtuously refused. But Mr. GARRETT afterwards went to Europe and left COWEN and KING authorized to do what he himself refused to do. It is also said that Mr. GARRETT on the same occasion refused to join GOULD in carrying Maryland for the Republicans this fall with a view to their joint control of the next Federal Administration. It seems, however, that Mr. GARRETT is getting out of the way as fast as he can and allowing the B.
& O. properties to pass under Mr. GOULD's control with all the political influence thereto appertaining. To protect them from GOULD's influence at Washington, the people need something more reliable than Mr. GARRETT's loose-hold on Maryland politics. Doubtless Mr. GOULD is anxious to run things at Washington with a view of fortifying his various monopolies, and probably with a view of unloading his telegraph property on the United States Government at a greatly watered valuation. In furtherance of this scheme he may gobble up a dozen GARRETTs, and still find in his path a lion that does not own a dollar's worth of railroad or telegraph stocks.

BEN BUTLER made a voluminous argument before the Supreme Court contending that SPIES and FELDENS, as subjects of Germany and Great Britain respectively, were protected by our treaties with those countries from being tried under any statute not enacted when those treaties were adopted. Where is that argument now? After remarking that no such question was raised or decided in the court below, so as to be subject to review, the unanimous decision of the Supreme Court adds: “We have not been referred to any treaty, neither are we aware of any under which such a question could be raised.” Was ever an argument that cost several thousand dollars disposed of in fewer words!

The common impression about the condition of politics in New York City must be grossly and incomprehensibly incorrect, if what Mayor HEWITT says is correct. He says:

My opinions expressed in 1880 have recently been reproduced by the press, and I now reaffirm them as a carefully prepared protest against the evils which follow the despotic and secret exercise of power by political bosses. I do not know of the existence of any such bosses in the city at this time. If they exist, it seems to me that the Mayor, in the discharge of his appointing powers, would have encountered them. They have not materialized in the Mayor's office, and no demands have been made upon me in their behalf.

It is now said that Gen. H. R. JACKSON of Savannah made that wild speech at Macon on purpose to anger the North, and thus to get even with the Administration for overruling him in the Rebecca case and forcing him to resign the Mexican mission so soon. This, if true, is only an another superficial illustration of Mr. BAY-ARD's penchant for diplomatic misfits found among the “old clo” molders on our forgotten shelves.

THE Anarchists will find it hard to understand how BEN BUTLER earned $250 a day in failing to save them from the hangman. It should be remembered, however, that old BEN stayed in the case without striking for higher pay. Some time ago he told a number of law students that he did not like to defend a man unless he thought him guilty. Doubtless he satisfied himself on this point before taking the case for the Anarchists.

The Richmond (Va.) Dispatch says that the fame of Le belongs to the whole American people; and the New York Herald accuses the Dispatch of purloining the idea from the speech delivered at Nashville by Senator Sherman. As the Ohio Senator is understood to have retracted his Southern speeches and repented for them in sackcloth and ashes, perhaps the Dispatch regards those speeches as common property.

IT is now admitted that FORAKER's friends made a great mistake in introducing the snub issue in the plan of campaign arranged for Ohio, and the Governor himself is compelled to boycott the subject in his speeches. He may attempt something else of a sensational character, but he will not have time to eat thirty quail in thirty days before the election.

SOME of the American Mormons want to establish a community in Turkey, where the laws would not seriously interfere with their peculiar institution. This is sensible; and it is a pity that our discontented Anarchists do not seek some region where no laws exist, and where the experiment of anarchy could be tested without police interference.

GOV. GORDON, in his Ohio speeches, did full justice to the Southern negroes, and they deserve all the good he says of them.
It should be remembered that when the Republican party was dominant in the South, its honesty and respectability in that section were furnished almost exclusively by the blacks.

AN Irish club in Dublin, in order to mortify Lord RANDOLPH CHURCHILL, elected him to its membership and expelled him the next week. This seems to be an improvement on the new American plan of proposing a man's name in a political club for the purpose of black-balling him.

AN unfortunate Aspirant.
From the Boston Herald.
How convenient to a politician is a long memory. Here is Senator Frank Hiseock of New York, in a speech the other day, referring to the name of Grant, made to say: “I cannot conceive in the loyal States a man going to the polls and voting against the man who bears that name.” And behold, the next morning out comes an unkind paper reporting Senator Hiseock that in 1872 he booted the Republican ticket for the Presidency because the name of Grant was upon it. We fear, however, it was less a lack of memory on his own part than a reliance on the information on the part of others that led Mr. Hiseock into this indiscretion.

New Orleans is as beautiful and as flat as a St. Paul is an over-grown baby.

A Muddled Paragraph.

From the Globe-Democrat.
Ex-Minister Jackson, who declared that Jeff Davis, and not Abraham Lincoln, was the rightful President of the United States during the war, was the candidate of the Georgia Protectionists for the seat occupied by Senator Colquitt, the Free Trader. As between Manning and Colquitt, every patriotic Protectionist ought to favor Colquitt. However, there is no good reason to believe that Manning is the only Protectionist in that State who is able enough to represent their cause acceptably in the Senate. If he is, they deserve the sympathy of their brethren in other parts of the country.

METROPOLITAN PRESS.
What the Editors of the New York Journals
Are Saying This Morning.
By Telegraph to the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, November 3.—The World says: “If the seven condemned Anarchists in jail in Chicago were distributed over the Supreme Court's denial of their application for a writ of error they did not show it when the news was taken to them yesterday. Parsons continued smoking and Spies returned to some writing upon which he was engaged. Neither had anything to say, and none of them exhibited the least emotion, notwithstanding the news was in the nature of a death warrant. It is evident that they had scarcely any hope of Federal interference, and since the haughty refusal of Fischer, Lingg and Engel to petition Gov. Oglesby for a commutation of sentence, it is not probable that they will interpose executive clemency.”
The Sun says: “It is little need clear that the Navy Department, in the midst of its effective work of providing a new fleet of fast steel cruisers and gunboats to take the place of the old wooden hulks and dropping to pieces, has not neglected the all-important subject of protecting our great cities on the seaboard and in the inland waters from floating defensive ships, guns, docks and navy yards. It is making a most judicious and judicious use of the which, while stimulating home industries, will also give adequate return in appliances of national defense.”
The Times says: “The friends and enemies of Boulanger go to about equal extremes. The other day it was announced that a military band music had been suppressed at Cler-mont-Ferrand because it was supposed for Boulanger. The next day it was announced that All Saints' Day was used in Paris by his sympatizers as a proper occasion for honoring him. What the suspended general has to do with saints is not clear, but perhaps his followers argue that the saints include the martyrs.”
The Tribune says: “The Democrats will henceforth strenuously uncover and bow in silent adoration before that saint incarnate of their order, the little Rebel Colonel from Arkansas. He does not pay his debts. It is true.

But what of that? By violation of a sacred trust, by treachery and ingratitude to those who elected him, by craft and adroit conniving with sinners against God and man, he might have stolen himself rich in office and actually resisted the temptation. Talk about your children of genius! It is the virtue of which the Democracy is proud.”

THE PEOPLE'S FORUM.

Public School Questions.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch: There seems to be at the present time, and very properly so, considerable agitation about the coming election for School Directors, which takes place November 22.

The German press, or the majority of it, insists upon it, that the instruction in German shall be continued, while the Globe-Democrat and Republican advocate that it should be entirely abandoned.

I am not in favor of radical measures, unless absolutely necessary, and think that the best course is to continue the instruction in German, but to gradually reduce the amount of instruction, until it is reduced to a mere tincture of the language, and then to discontinue it.

The purchase of a magnificent lot for a new high school on Grand avenue, on which already over $80,000 have been invested, and which is now being sold for $40,000, is a very bad business, and one which should be immediately abandoned.

The instruction of German costs $60,000 per annum, and the kindergarten about $40,000 more. It may be that both of these branches will hereafter have to be abandoned, in order to give our children an ordinary common school English education. This must be done before we can afford to indulge in such extraneous expenses.

Some have an idea that an increased taxation of our millers is necessary for the people, but I am satisfied that, at present at least, such a measure cannot be carried.
The writer of this is a so-called “German-American,” and is a steadfast friend of our public school system, and is always ready to live and active interest in its prosperity, and what he says here about the High School, and the kindergarten, is true.

Let voters be careful and only support men who are friends of our public school system.
None other than these. Politics should not be allowed to enter into a School Board election.
We should not have a citizens' ticket independent of party.

The views expressed by me in these lines I believe are in accordance with the sentiments of a large majority of our people, native born as well as of foreign birth.

St. Louis, November 1, 1887.

Just Cause of Complaint.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch: Could you give something for the merchants of Broadway, between Market street and Washington avenue, to prevent their merchandise from being totally destroyed by the dust, which is now much worse than it ever was before the passage of the new ordinance?
Side streets, where there is little traffic, are soaking wet, while the large thoroughfares are being entirely neglected.

You would oblige many of your old subscribers by doing something to abate this evil.
Yours respectfully,
St. Louis, November 1, 1887.

German, but to gradually reduce the amount
of instruction, until it is reduced to a mere
tinue it.

high school on Grand avenue, on which
which is now being sold for $40,000, is a very bad business, and one which should be immediately abandoned.

annum, and the kindergarten about $40,000
more. It may be that both of these branches
extraneous expenses.

Some have an idea that an increased tax-
at least, such a measure cannot be carried.
what he says here about the High School,
and the kindergarten, is true.

who are friends of our public school system.

WILL THE PRESSMEN GO OUT?

The Important Question in the Job Composers Strike To-Day—The Situation.

The relations between the striking job printers and the employers remained unchanged during the day, both parties continuing to remain firm without any overtures from either side. The employers, while running a force decidedly below their average, declare confidently that they will suffer no serious inconvenience, and can at any time secure all the workmen they require, and even should difficulty arise in this direction that the non-union offices can be called upon to supply any deficiency. At several offices for work, and many of them have proved to be skillful compositors. No overtures have been made to those out on the strike, and none will be, the employers say, as their loss is not greatly felt at present, and the new hands will become more efficient every day.

The striking compositors are equally determined and equally confident in the strength of their position. The non-union hands, they state, may do well enough to handle simple work slowly, but the moment that there is a demand for fine quality proof the employers will be only too glad to pay the increased wages demanded by the strikers. The union men have not been idle, but have stationed representatives near every printing office, with directions to accept every man who may apply for work and persuade him to withdraw his application. While some, it is asserted, have gone to work in spite of this, the greater number have been induced to passively aid the strikers.

THE MOST DANGEROUS move to the employers that has been made by the union men, has been their endeavor to induce the pressmen to join in the strike. If they are successful in persuading the pressmen to join hands with the compositors, they assert that their demands will be instantly complied with, and even the employers admit that such a move would be most threatening, as it would be far more difficult to obtain good pressmen than good compositors. The pressmen, however, although sympathizing with their brother craftsmen, are by no means ready to go on a strike at a moment's notice, especially as they have no demands to make themselves and would be actually assisted by sympathy. The matter has been generally discussed during the day, the compositors strongly urging their claims, and the employers are equally in earnest in their endeavors to prevent such a move, and have been called out for to-night, when the question will be fully discussed.

Following the example of their elders, the children who act as feeders for Buxton & Skinner had a meeting, and elected a president, and gravely discussed the question as to whether they should go on a strike, and after mature deliberation it was determined not to join the strike, and the employers once more breathe freely.

FATHER LOWRY'S FUNERAL.

The Deceased Jesuit Buried This Morning in the Novitiate Cemetery.

The late Father Daniel Lowry, S. J., was buried at this morning. The remains, which had lain in state in the College Church last evening, and over which the fathers and scholars had chanted the impressive office for the dead as the twilight came down and enveloped the church were watched by a large number of people, and at 6 o'clock a low mass was said over them by Father L. J. Meyer, provincial of the Jesuit order. The ceremony was then taken by Father L. J. Meyer, assisted by Father Mather and Father Francis. When the service was over, the remains were taken to the novitiate, where a beautiful and solemn, as the stream of the river met the sea, and conveyed the sleeping priest to the little cemetery of the novitiate where without further ceremony the coffin was lowered into the grave. The deceased having been a professor in the University, his remains will be celebrated in the students' chapel last night.

In Lewis County the temperance people were victorious. In Boone County the returns likewise show a victory for the temperance advocates.

OTHELLO AND IAGO.

A STUNNING AUDIENCE WITNESSES LAST EVENING'S PERFORMANCE.

The Distinctive Quality of Mr. Booth's

Power of Suggestion—Mr. Barrett as

Othello—The Audience and the Play—

Opening of the German Opera Season—

"Tristan and Isolde" Produced at the

New York Metropolitan—Amusement

Notes.

One of the best bills of the week was presented at the Metropolitan last evening, and the audience was the largest so far. There was scarcely a vacant chair in the parquet and dress circle, while a line of spectators stood around the railing nearly the entire evening.

The performance of "Othello" offered Mr. Booth as Iago and Mr. Barrett as Othello.

Mr. Booth was again at his best and his Iago filled the stage and held with irresistible power the attention and admiration of the audience.

Before the close of the performance the enthusiasm was abundant.

His Iago is at once the most satisfying and unsatisfying, the most brilliant and provoking creation on the stage. It is satisfying because it fills every nook and crevice of the character which the mind can conceive, and more, this "more" is the unsatisfying part of it. It is the quality which is the distinctive mark of the creation, which makes it what it is, and yet while it is distinct and potent it is a definable. It is intense and purifying, it is a search for truth and battles with every turn. You find yourself seeking, analyzing, trying to grasp and define it. You think one instant that you have it and you know the next instant that you know it is not.

With the Iago on the stage first he seems the most unimportant personage there, nor does his individuality assert itself rapidly. A few lines later, rather than an actor, he is studying his materials and laying his plans. Nothing has overtly indicated this to you but you feel it. This is the first step. Then a few cynical words, quietly but significantly spoken, reveal the nature of the man. Next his plan is formed but without any clear assurance of its success. He glides in and out, dropping a poisoned word here, assuming a frankness and a friendship with consummate skill, leaving only a deep-hole through the mask for the audience, soft and suggestive, smothering, smiling, snarling or flattering as the occasion demands, until before you know it he has invaded every part of the stage and is master of the situation. The scene of cruelty and hypocrisy and the ease of insinuation has been reached.

This result is recognized but is something more than can be grasped. The imagination is stirred into activity and the man is invested with a subtle diabolism, a superiority and a devilishness which is superhuman. The impression is undoubted, but exactly what it is and how it is attained, the first question cannot be answered satisfactorily. It is a quality which is the highest quality of genius and art—suggestion.

Mr. Booth does not attempt to draw every line of his character and hence it is that in his Iago is greater than his. He draws by both parties, as it is generally agreed that the pressmen hold the key of the position. Reports have been received that the pressmen have joined the compositors, and if this should prove true it will have a decided influence upon to-night's meeting. The pressmen have practically agreed to follow the pressmen, and in all probability act in concert with them.

LITTLE STRIKERS. Following the example of their elders, the children who act as feeders for Buxton & Skinner had a meeting, and elected a president, and gravely discussed the question as to whether they should go on a strike, and after mature deliberation it was determined not to join the strike, and the employers once more breathe freely.

who must feel the spirit of the listeners, animated and inspired. There certainly was no lack of energy and vigor upon the stage. All the artists were in high spirits, and all the exception of Herr Robinson, who was suffering from a severe cold for which misfortune the indulgence of the audience was asked, they were in magnificent voice. They undoubtedly felt that the occasion was an important and a pleasant one and they all appeared glad to be WELCOMED BACK TO AMERICA, and the Metropolitan Opera House. When Herr Seidel came to his desk there was a hearty round of applause to greet him, but so well trained has the audience become that when the curtain was raised, revealing Franklin Lehman and Franklin Brandt, not a hand was raised to interrupt the scene, and when Nietzsche came upon the stage no sound greeted him. Abundant recognition was, however, accorded to the singers after each act, the temper of the audience being of the most amiable kind. The cast was exactly the same as that of last season, including, besides Lehman and Brandt, Neimann, Alvery, Fischer, Robinson and Von Milde. But there was never so good a representation as that of last evening, for while every house and every part of the acting and stage management were familiar to the artists, there was the spontaneity and vivacity of a first night's performance, while the assured success of the work and the predetermined good disposition of the audience added incentive to vigorous endeavor. The beauty of the opera-house and the splendor of the audience came upon the scene with all its entire freshness, and was as grateful to the eye as the bewitching tones of the beautiful orchestra were to the ear. The band played like one man, or, better still, like Wagner, for the music was not a mere accompaniment. There was no flaw from beginning to end. The music rose and fell in undulating waves, supporting the voices, drawing them out, and subtly working upon the emotions of the audience by its mighty symphonic power.

Amusement Notes.

The Standard has an attraction which pleases its patrons in "Under the Last Leaf." Tony Denier's clever comedy is entertaining the audiences at the People's in an excellent style.

"Gypsy, the Magic Queen" is winning good opinions at Pope's and is drawing fine audiences.

"Jim the Penman" has won the favor of the public, and is undoubtedly one of the most absorbing plays which have been given here for a long time. W. J. Ferguson has a most attractive performance in "The Last Days of Pompeii," and the work of the entire cast is excellent. The prospect is that the Grand will be packed for the rest of the week.

NATURAL GAS.

St. Louis Natural Gas & Oil Company, which is now paying for drilling that is being done near Edwardsville, Ill., has in anticipation of future drilling and hence, has secured 2,000 acres in St. Louis county on which they propose to begin another search for gas and oil. The well near Edwardsville is going down to 2,000 feet and the drill is now in the last 100 feet. When 2,000 feet have been drilled the work will stop, unless the indications of gas are more plain than at present. The drill has been out, all the casing that has been put in, and the contractor will be ready for another job. The hole is now about 1,500 feet deep, and will have cost about $7,000. The 2,000 feet is reached. The leases which the company has secured in St. Louis county for further operations lie west of Bartlett and north of Manchester. The leases were secured by Jonathan Watson of Tulsa, Okla., who has had a great deal of experience in oil and gas well boring. He became convinced from his experience in Oklahoma, Kansas, and possibly, petroleum could be found under these lands, and indeed the company is always active, but the search for the leases are one-eighth of all oil land goes to the owner of the land, and the company will pay $100 for each acre. The conditions are similar to those in Oklahoma and Pennsylvania. The company has 150 of these leases in its desk. Work will not be begun on the lands until the work at Edwardsville has been completed. The occupants will not be disturbed in their possession, even when the drilling begins. How soon operations will be commenced is not known.

Scott, the Kansas City real estate agent, who owns a large tract of land on the Clayton road, will be put down on the list of either by himself or by the company, the decision will depend on the result of the negotiations.

Joseph Hickey and his wife, Mary Hickey, who live at No. 2233 Maple street, St. Louis, have been charged with the murder of their son, John Hickey, who was found dead in the river. The charges are that they had conspired to kill their son, and that they had actually done so. The case is now pending in the St. Louis court.

A rather humorous incident occurred when the cases of Agnes Bailey and Laura Beyer were called. Both women were charged with the murder of their sons. The cases were called together, and the judge, in a humorous way, asked the women if they were ready to plead guilty. Both women replied that they were not ready to plead guilty, and the judge, in a humorous way, asked them if they were ready to plead guilty.
